“OLEANDRO” AUDITORIUM

Audio:

equipped with a high quality sound system for both music and speech

Microphones:

1 for the podium

5 for the chairmen

1 handheld microphone for the audience

1 clip-on microphone

The sound system is in two locations:

in the auditorium and on stage to allow for different uses

The audio control room is separate and equipped with both recording and reproduction systems, including:

sound quality control using a sophisticated digital system that automatically equalizes the sound in the auditorium based on the number of people in the audience and the type of sound being transmitted.

Video:

equipped with a large motorized screen (10m wide and 6m high). Two high-power video projectors (3000 lumens) can project multi-standard video and from computer in true XGA and virtual SXGA resolutions.

2 slide projectors with lenses of various length and Kodak Ektapro infrared remote control

The video projectors are able to handle double projections. For example:

a close-up of the speaker and data from a computer, video player or other external source (e.g. video conferencing); or they can be overlapped in order to provide a large, extremely bright image, which allows for bright projections in a well-lit environment.

A system of video cameras controlled remotely from the control room make it possible to film the event, as well as to project the event within the auditorium or to other connected locations.

The video control room can also bilaterally connect the main auditorium to other locations either within or outside the conference center.

Illuminated message boards will also be positioned in the auditorium, which the reception office controls in order to transmit messages and information.

The reception office can also send audio announcements to any or all of the conference areas involved in the event.

Backstage measurements - screen-side:	floor / stage	1.5m
	backstage (right)	2.60m
	backstage (left)	2.70m
